SLAIN BY BANDITS

Chicago Clerk Shot in Drug Store Holdup

CHICAGO — (United Press) —
Five persons were examined by police today in the hunt for the three bandits who last night killed a clerk and robbed a drug store across the street from the city hall, while thousands of theater patrons were jamming the sidewalks.

Joseph Maurer, 20, high school student who acted as clerk in the drug store, was shot down because he refused to tell the bandits the combination to the safe, police believe.

Indications were that he tried to get away with the men.

Scores of persons, attracted by shots pressed against the windows. But the bandits worked open the safe and securing it. Then, guns in hand, they ran out of the store and made their escape before the policemen and spectators swarming in the city were apprised of the crime.

Maurer was found lying across a counter with a bullet thru the heart.

Police of Cleveland, Detroit and Toledo have been asked to hunt for the bandits.

A room key in a coat off overcoat found in the drugs store gave the clue to their flight.

WOMAN ROBBED

DAVIS ENDORSED FOR PRESIDENT

Action Taken by Kansas Democratic Convention

HUTCHINSON, Kas. — (United Press) — Democracy is marching towards its greatest triumph,” Johnathan M. Davis, dirt farmer governor of Kansas, declared today, after he had been given the endorsement of the state Democratic convention for the presidential nomination.

The governor wept as the endorsement was voted without dissent.

“I wish my old Democratic father and mother were here so that they could witness the victory the party will score next November,” he said.

Delegates chosen to the national convention in New York were instructed to vote for Davis “until a majority decide it is no longer advisable.”

William G. McAdoo will get the support after that, as most of the delegates are McAdoo men.

The convention delivered a direct blow to Governor Smith of New York in declaring that the delegates should support no one who is not whole-heartedly in favor of complete enforcement of the prohibition law.

Supporters of Governor Davis expect to line up delegates from several other midwestern states before the convention. The keynote of the governor’s appeal for nomination by the national convention will be restoration of confidence in government.

Recent disclosures in the oil lease and department of justice investigations in Washington indicate that “sacred fires of freedom are about to be extinguished,” the governor declared.

“We must reestablish the faith of the people which has been shaken to its foundation in our government.” “Champions of freedom and liberty must make this greatest effort during the presidential election.”

SHIP BURNS AT SEA

1,200 Passengers Are Rescued
From British Steamer

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt — (Associated Press) — The British steamship Frangstan has been abandoned on fire in the Red sea and the 1,- 200 pilgrims aboard her transferred to the steamer Olan Maciver, says a message to Lloyd’s agent from the latter vessel. The Olan Maciver is proceeding with the passengers to Port Said.

The Frangstan was first reported afire early yesterday. Dispatches last night said flames, starting in the cargo of cotton, had spread and that the whole fore end was blazing fiercely.

The pilgrims are bound for Jed-dah, the seaport of Mecca, the Mohammedan holy city.

Polish Envoy to U. S. Removed Because of Liquor Charges

WARSAW — (Associated Press)
—Dr. Venceslav Sokolowski, former first secretary of the Polish legation in Washington who was recalled recently after the seizure of a large amount of liquor in his apartment, has been released from the diplomatic service after an investigation by the foreign office.

Dr. Sokolowski was recalled after a raid on his Washington residence during the Christmas holidays and the discovery of alcoholic liquors estimated to be worth $60,- 000.

Secretary of State Hughes sent a note to the Polish minister regretting that “the immunity cus-tomarily enjoyed by all diplomatic officers should not have been observed in this instance,” but pointed out that the first secretary “appears to have had in his possession a quantity of alcoholic beverages greatly in excess of that which the privileges and immunities in this regard  would justify.”

State Inspectors Sought to Make Sweeping Probe

TOLEDO — (United Press) —
Meyer Selzman, proprietor of a local drug store and three other men, were formally charged with manslaughter today in connection with 19 poison booze deaths here Sunday.

Officer named in warrant issued by police, are Harry Porter, Marion Brucker and Aaron Leventhal, all employed as clerks in Selzman’s drug store.

The inquest into the poison booze deaths was opened by Coroner Hen-zler today.

William Hickey, who admitted he bought denatured alcohol in unlabeled bottles in Selzman’s drug store for 35 cents, was the first witness.

HAD HEAVY KICK

Hickey said the stuff tasted like old garbage and resembled a milk-like liquid with a kick that knocks one out all of a sudden.” Hickey was arrested with some of the poison booze in his possession and is being held for federal authorities.

Nineteen have succumbed to canned heat and denatured alcohol orgies.

The latest victim, James Carter, 58, of Toledo, died in the county jail at 820 a. m. today. He was being held as a witness by authorities.

Three others are in the municipal hospital in a serious condition.

Thoroughly alarmed over the death toll which increased daily since Monday, city officials were preparing to take drastic action. A request has been made to the state board of pharmacy to send two inspectors to Toledo, to determine whether the laws regulating the sale of poisons and liquor were being violated.

While the shooting of James C.
Clark, negro hold up man, by J. R.
Cuthbert ended the reign of highway robbery and store burglaries and Clem Thompson’s battle with two automobile thieves saved his machine, reports of prowlers filled with such regularity that police and citizens alike are becoming aroused.

The movements of the negro prowlers are somewhat similar to the “man in black” who terrorized the fashionable west end last year.

Talks for Both Managers and Employees Are Given

MORTON-SHERIDAN PRESENT

Remnant and Worn Shoes to Aid Foreign Sufferers

Nearly 150 retailers and salesmen, members of the Ohio Valley Shoe Retailers Association, were present at the district meeting at the Bay hotel, Wednesday night. Paul W. Crawford, of Lima, president of the association, presided at the meeting which opened at 6:30 p.m.

Featuring the gathering were talks given by Samuel A. Davis, field man for the National Shoe Retailers Association. His first talk was directed to the salespeople and had to do with efficiency and courtesy to customer. The second was for the benefit of the managers, and the theme had reference to an analysis of business organization.

George Sheridan of Columbus, manager of the Ohio State Retail Council, gave a short talk on "Co-operation in business." Sheridan is a new man with the retail council and was formerly an efficiency expert. He is at present engaged in attempting to have a course for retail shoe merchants and prospective merchants installed in Ohio's state University.

MORTON-HIGHT

Jim Morton, former head of the Lima chamber of commerce, and a past field man for the Ohio State association, was at the meeting. He is at present located at Columbus, and his official capacity is as Sheridan's right-hand man. With his new office Morton inherits the leadership of the "Retail Council," the publicity organ of the association with which he is affiliated.

As backer of the Lima meeting, Crawford, says the object is to create system and cooperation among shoe dealers. These meetings are to be held all over the state, he says, with the next at Canton in the near future.

Merchants who are members of the Ohio Valley association are sending all remnant shoes to the Near East Relief, and it was suggested at the meeting that all Lima people bring their discarded footwear to any store in the city, to be repaired and sent to the needy in foreign countries.

STUDENTS ARE TO BE RECEIVED AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON — President Coolidge will receive students at the White House during the student conferences on law observance and citizenship Saturday and Sunday. More than 100 institutions, it is announced, will be represented in the meetings, which will discuss the effects of prohibition in the colleges and universities and point out what can be done for law observance and to create better citizenship.

ALIEN WARDS OF STATE EXPENSIVE, CABLE SAYS

When the House debate on the Johnson bill to restrict immigration opened Wednesday Congressman John L. Cable of Lima, presented statistics showing that Ohio is spending $1 million dollars a year to care for foreign born inmates in public institutions.

Cable, who is a staunch advocate of curtailment of the present rate of immigration, has secured figures from sixteen state institutions in Ohio showing that in a number of cases as high as 50 per cent of the inmates are of foreign birth, altho but twelve per cent of Ohio's entire population is alien born.

The Cleveland state hospital reported that more than half its inmates are foreign born and cost tax-payers of the state over $175,000 a year. There are 545 prisoners of alien birth in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, costing over $115,000 a year. Three hundred and fifteen alien born are confined in the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane. Their cost is $78,750 a year.

"These are cases in which the 'Melting Pot' failed to function," said Congressman Cable. "It is the class of aliens who wind up in public institutions whom we are trying to keep out under the present bill."

"RED" M'GAHAN TO BE TRIED

Federal Court Sentence Vacated Permitting Dayton Trial

"Red" McGahan will be tried Friday at Dayton for the alleged robbery of the West Carrolton bank, court officials announced there Thursday.

This is in spite of efforts on the part of his attorneys to hold up proceedings thus habeas corpus action. Under this action McGahan was transferred to Toledo Wednesday night and taken before Federal Judge John Killian Thursday morning.

Judge Killian vacated the two year sentence he had imposed on McGahan following his conviction in the Delta bank robbery and resentenced McGahan to two and a half hours in the custody of the Toledo U. S. marshal.

Judge Killian vacated the two year sentence he had imposed on McGahan following his conviction in the Delta bank robbery and resentenced McGahan to two and a half hours in the custody of the Toledo U. S. marshal.

McGahan will be immediately removed to Dayton under heavy guard and placed on trial, it was announced. Should he be found guilty, he can only be sentenced to serve 15 years in the state penitentiary as the offense committed occurred prior to the passage of the new law, officials said.

WILLIS SUPPORTING BILL TO AID GERMAN CHILDREN

Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio has made it known that he will support the Fish resolution for a gift or loan of $10,000,000 to aid hungry Germans when that measure comes before the Senate Foreign Relations committee, of which Willis is a member.

In the form in which it passed the House, the Fish resolution calls for extension of $10,000,000 worth of relief by this government to Germany, subject to capable supervision and expenditure by experienced workers in foreign relief, including Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover. Representatives Burton, Cable, Cooper, Davy, Longworth, Begg and other prominent Ohio members voted in favor of it after several hours of debate.

With the declaration of Wills in favor of the resolution the Foreign Relations committee stands night eight to seven in favor of the resolution with Senators Lodge and Borah the deciding factors. Both Lodge and Borah have said that they will favor the relief measure if the money is made as a loan rather than a gift. In the event a loan is decided upon, it must be made subject to delayed payment, as Germany is in no condition today to give any collateral.

President Coolidge has been non-committal regarding the Fish bill, but it is not expected that he will veto it if it passes.

BUSINESS TREND IS UPWARD

Banking Review for March Reveals Encouraging Factors

STEEL ORDERS INCREASING

Trade Movement Evenly Distributed; Country is Optimistic

Improvement in fundamental business conditions during March is noted in the Lima Trust Co. business survey for April.

Reports of industrial output, building activity, railway car loadings, wholesale and retail trade are interpreted as reflecting a high degree of business activity tho the uncertainty of price movements has not stimulated a forward buying policy.

Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation showed an increase of 114,472 tons, somewhat larger than was anticipated, says the survey.

PRODUCTION UP

"Of equal importance with the increase in unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation, was the marked increase in pig iron production, the average daily production for the month of February being almost identical with that of twelve months ago."

"The trade movement has been large and fairly evenly distributed. Reports from all sections of the country have a tone of optimism, a part of which is attributable to expectations rather than realizations to date. There does not seem to be any evidence, however, of booming conditions. Buying is on a conservative basis, payments are reasonably prompt and credit losses few."

Note is taken of the prevailing disposition to wonder if the present high output of automobile can be continued. During the first two months of the year 665,234 automobiles and motor trucks were manufactured, compared with 520,473 in 1923, and only 213,753 in 1922. The March scale of operations is reported as having been somewhat higher than that of February.

MILLIONAIRE OIL MAN ONCE HERDER OF MULES

E. L. Doheny Tells of His Early Life on Frontier

ASSIGNED TOUGHEST SHIFT

Given Night Work Because of Dislike for Him

This is the fourth chapter of "How I Made My Millions," by E. L. Doheny, now a millionaire oil man and figure in the Senate of investigation. Once he was a boy who had to leave his home at Pond du Lac to make his fortune in the west.

(By E. L. DOHENY)

From Leavenworth at the time would have been a paradise for a boy. For there were gathered the men who made the west and later, the nation, and it was in the jail of every red-blooded American General Court of Inquiry into Gen. George Custer's and Gen. J. A. Quitman's

Billy Bowlegs, Little Rover, Red Clark, Cheyenne, and many others.

There was a soldier there and had more, a drummer and Indian fighters. And I was turned adrift in their company!

When I heard that an expedition was taking on to go into the Powder River country in Dakota, I could see no way of getting away from that outfit. I had to quit. I gave a written note to Gen. Wilson, a brother-in-law who had charge of buying the horses for the expedition. I was slated only to be disappointed again.

For Wilson said I was too young and too small to go on the trip. But he promised to send me on another expedition that soon was to be undertaken.

DISLIKED BY BOSS

He kept his word. When the plan for Lieutenant Wheeler's survey of the New Mexico-Arizona boundary were completed, not long dream finally came true. I was to go with it as mule herder.

So us had to drive 110 shave tail miles down to Santa Fe, where the expedition was to start.

The man in charge didn't like me. I was bubbling over too much with the enthusiasm of youth. So he assigned me to night herding—the toughest shift.

There wasn't much time for rest, for I couldn't sleep during the day while the bunch was on the move, and I couldn't sleep at night while I was on duty.

We drove down past Fort Bent, Fort Lyons, southwest to Trinidad, thru Raccoon Pass, where Dick Wootan's night herders held sway. It was a wild country and cattle thieves were rampant. So they armed me with an old fashioned Spanish Spencer carbine, and gave me orders to shoot on sight without warning. One night I almost shot the boss herder when he sneaked up on me to see if I was asleep.

An escort of soldiers went with us part of the way. One of them came to me one evening and told me that there were snakes in his cot. I went to beat them out. The next day I was the laughing-stock of the camp. The man had delirious tremors—and I didn't know what they were.

Between this drunk and the wild mules I had to handle, I was driven hard.

Finally we reached Santa Fe, and I joined the expedition proper, going with the Wheeler forces as a packer.

RUMMAGE SALE ON N. MAIN, OPPOSITE COURT HOUSE, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

SERVICE COUNCIL PLANS ORGANIZATION OBSERVANCE

OTTAWA — The second anniversary of the organization of the Putnam Service council will be observed in June, near to the 12th, the day upon which the council was organized in 1922.

The postal forces of Ottawa are organized under the system and four meetings have been held each year. Service Council Corporation is the name of the service club, which is the result of the work of this council, will be held in Ottawa. Grant Bogart, postmaster of Columbus Grove, is president, and A. C. Carter, of Putnam, is vice-president.

ALFRED LIEU FUNERAL

OTTAWA — The body of Alfred Lieu, 60, who died Tuesday at St. Rita's hospital in Lima following an operation, was brought to Alfred's afternoon following funeral services held at the late hour at W. A. West Lima Interdenominational Tabernacle, in Lima.

The deceased was the former wife of H. T. Lieu, and resided here for many years. Her son, Alfred, is a member of the Lima Fire Department.

ELLIER FUNERAL

OTTAWA — Funeral services for Adolphus Ellier, who died Wednesday, will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, at the home of his step-son, Paul Martin, 205 N. Perry St. Rev. P. Ross, pastor of First United Methodist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Cemetery cemetery. Besides his wife, whom he died, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Louis Cesar and Mrs. A. J. Corwin, both of Fremont.

REMY IS SOLD

Vaughnsville — Sugar Creek-up, just now is adding up valuable timber for the mills, which is being made from the dead trees purchased from farmers here. The trees are dug out of the ground, to allow for the new growth in the wood, which is often close to the roots. H. H. King, of Lancaster, has been engaged the last month in buying these trees and the work of removal may provide employment for a number of men.

CHURCH CONFERENCE

Vaughnsville — The semi-annual session of the Northwestern Ohio Christian church conference will be held here at the Christian church on April 1 and 2. More than 30 churches will be represented. Many are rural.

STORY BOUGHT

Vaughnsville — J. C. Shaffer of Ottawa has purchased the B. F. Smith Hardware store.

TO ENTERTAIN

Cold Mud's Grove — Mrs. Charles Ward and Mrs. Sterling Ward will be joint hosts at the meeting of the Total Embodiment club next Tuesday afternoon.

NEW KOHL BABY

Vaughnsville — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kohl announce the birth of a son into their home on last Sunday.

WORK BEGINS

Work was begun Thursday morning on the $20,000 addition to the Crawford Boot Shop. The annex is to house several office rooms, a new hosiery department and a children's department. A 60-foot addition with a 21-foot front, and double entrance doors is planned.

FREE-to Test!

Let us prove that here is a far more efficient, harmless and pleasant relief than the usual cathartics, laxatives, pills, salts, and oils for the Bowels, or than soda and the ordinary "indigestion remedies" for Sour, Acid Stomach.

Constipation

Biliousness

Sick Headache

Sour Stomach

Flatulence

Gases

Heartburn

For fifty years "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it has an advantage over the usual laxatives and cathartics in being harmless, almost tasteless, mild in operation and not causing nausea, griping or the slightest inconvenience; also because it has an advantage over the usual "stomach remedies" in that it is a markedly efficient antacid, neutralizing almost three times as much acid as a saturated solution of Bicarbonate of Soda and almost fifty times as much as Lime Water. Besides, it is laxative, and inasmuch as constipation is frequently the cause of sour, acid stomach, its correction usually gives prompt relief.

QUICK RELIEF CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for castor oil.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and cancer's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache and torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

LIQUOR DECISION WITHHELD

Judge Hamilton Hears Arguments on Kaufman Seizure.

TRANSFER IS EXPLAINED

Removal Permits Lacking, However, State Attorney Asserts.

Decision on an application for return of 72 gallons of whisky and 15 gallons of port and sherry wine, filed by Joe T. Kaufman, president of the Vapo Stove Co., was withheld by Probate Judge J. H. Hamilton following a hearing Wednesday.

Kaufman sought the return of the wine and liquor on ground that he had obtained a permit for its possession prior to prohibition.

The permit was offered in evidence. Difference in the description of the beverages described in the permit and those seized by dry agents at the Vapo stove works, March 26, was accounted for by Kaufman by a robbery two years ago when thieves removed the whisky from its original containers.

After its return by former Deputy Fraunfelder to the vault at the Ohio steel foundry, Kaufman told the court that he had had the whisky placed in wooden kegs.

SUPPLY MOVED

The whisky and wine was moved from the steel plant to the Vapo stove factory, Kaufman said, without his knowledge. He declared that John Galvin, president of the steel plant had ordered it moved away, because he feared the vault might again be burglarized.

No government permit to haul the wet goods from the steel foundry to the stove works ever obtained. It was admitted, however, that others, whisky dealers at the plant were denied by Kaufman.

Kaufman will face trial on charges of illegal possession of whisky in probate court Friday. Judge Hamilton is expected to rule on the application at the same time he decides on the possession charge.

C. W. Long, assistant prosecutor, based the right for seizure on Kaufman's failure to provide himself with a permit to move the whisky to the stove factory.

SCANDALS DENOUNCED

Republican women have not shown any disposition to defend or palliate the actions of Republican officials involved in the Teapot Dome scandal, altho a bad example has been set for them in this respect by Republican men, many of them in high places of authority.

At a meeting of the Republican Neighborhood association in New York City a few days ago, Mrs. Robert Giles, a member of the legislative committee of the organization, told of her experience in the course of a visit to Washington the previous week.

She described the investigation of the naval oil leases as a "modern school for scandal." She had no hesitancy in revealing her estimate of one Albert B. Fall, former member of the president's cabinet.

There was no sign that the other women in the meeting regarded this as irreverence toward a Republican leader. They were not so eager to defend him as the Republican national committee appears to be.

There is good and sufficient reason for this state of affairs in the ranks of women. In 1920, when the women of the nation came into their own in the matter of voting in national affairs for the first time, the Republican party annexed them, by a program of promises and propaganda. They were led to believe that voting the Republican ticket was next to faithfulness in their religious beliefs. How they have been disillusioned the women now know.

In this connection, a statement made recently by former Congressman Joe Cannon, at his home in Danville, Ill., is reflective of a state of affairs which women voters—and men too—now realize. The congressional patriarch, a lifelong Republican, said:

"The Republicans could have gone into power in 1920 without the necessity of telling a single lie, but they told so many they now find it impossible to wiggle out of them."

LANGUAGE OF ONE WORD

Here's a race of people whose language consists of only one word. This word is "Inge." It's used by a community of 250 savages who live on the banks of the Caucus River in Peru. Garret F. Hall, artist-explorer, returns to civilization and tells about them.

When a crowd of these savages gets together for a talkfest, one of them says, "Inge." Presently another savage nods and answers "Inge." If there is a general agreement, the whole crowd choruses "Inge." Sounds like a political meeting.

How would you like to live among them? After all, think what a fine arrangement it would be for the pests who bore you with their driveling gab. One word and they'd be talked out. Or, at an oil investigation, a witness wouldn't have to hem and haw or refuse to answer on advice of counsel. He'd simply say, "Inge"—and let the audience make its own guesses at what he means.

It'd be an ideal system for newspapermen who wanted to get away to a ball game. Just send the paper to press with one word, "Inge"—thus telling everything with the utmost detail possible. Fine system for an editor cramped for space.

What word would you select if our language had to be weeded out and singled down to one word? The Babbitts will make such selections as "patriotism," "mother," "loyalty" or "truth."

We know thirsty folk who'd select "Whisky," in the hope that if they said it often enough they'd finally find some kind-hearted party with a pre-war cellar."

For politicians we'd recommend "Bunk." Sufficiently repeated, it would make a good average political speech. Imagine a candidate swinging around the circle and haranguing his hearers: "Bunk, bunk, bunk, bunk!" The audience would listen awhile, nod their heads and comment to themselves, "I see the issues haven't changed since the last election. The campaign is to be fought out along regulation lines?"

There are times when our radio speaks only one word: "Eee-e!"

Seriously, tho it was a great event in human history when the first word was invented. So began speech. It must have started with one word, possibly "Ouch!"

Language is our greatest invention. Humanity is like a baby, beginning with one word, gradually becoming fluently expressive.

Baby in the cradle, then gradually growing to maturity and finally aging—this is symbolic of civilization. On this comparison, how old is humanity now? About two years?

HURRYING-UP STUFF

Famous Harley Street specialists have a habit of saying in a box on the front page what I have been yelling here for years and years without anybody hearing me. Some day I want to have an office in Harley Street, London.

Haven't said much lately about the vitamins. Tried to get people trained to the shorter spelling, but find they stick to the leisurely form, vitamines, and probably they pay as little attention to everything else I say about vitamins; so I've been avoiding the subject for a while. But now it is time to announce the latest physiological facts about vitamins. Not that it will make any difference, yet somehow I feel that a stray fact or two should be offered the public occasionally, just by way of variety and change.

It is true the vitamins never worried us much in the halcyon days when spring blood purifiers and liver complaint were the vogue, and in commenting on such matters people of limited observation and intelligence are wont to opine that folks were healthier and stronger in those days than they are now—an idea as palpably false as it would be to declare that people covered more ground at greater speed in the old horse and buggy days than they do now. The scientists who have learned from animal experimentation all we know about vitamins have made a great contribution to the development of a healthier and happier race, since they have taught us how to prevent or avoid many disease conditions or impairments of health which, in the old days, we thought inevitable.

JUST FOLKS

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

THE BROKEN DREAM

He sits beside his desk all day
A slave to business and its tasks,
And those who come and go away
See not the dream his frowning masks.

They never guess he holds that post
To serve his family and their needs.
Gives up the joy he longs for most
To fill his day with irksome duds.

They watch him counting money out

Or following the lines of trade,
And sometimes think him cold, no doubt,
And mad for profits to be made.

Yet crushed within his breast there lies A cherished dream men never view,
A hope, had life willed otherwise,
Of finer things he'd some day do.

The roads for all of us divide,
There are two ways for each to go:
One which to others will provide The comforts he would have them know.

The other lures the poet on.
The painter and the man of dreams;

But who goes there may serve but one,
However beautiful it seems.

Like him, by all the choice is made,
Each goes the way he deemeth wise.
When duty calls a man to trade.
A poet or a painter dies.

Fellowship of Prayer

(Copyright, 1920)

Read Mt. 5:17-20. Text: 5:19.
But whosoever shall do and teach them (those commandments) he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

Furthermore the will of God is always rising in him to summon him to work with it in the creative evolution of an honest, friendly, powerful world, a world civilization all of whose laws, customs, and institutions shall be in accord with these fundamental qualities of life.

MEDITATION: The greatness of one's life is measured by his contribution thru his labor to the upbuilding of the Kingdom of God.

The work of the Kingdom of God requires that much labor be done out of sight and sound, the results of which become evident only long afterwards. When we know so little about the ultimate purposes of life we cannot always know how best to build our own lives most effectively into the Kingdom. But we can accept the principles which Jesus gave us and follow them, knowing that if our lives are expended in that direction the ultimate fruitage of our labors will be good.

PERSONAL QUESTION: Am I patient in doing today's duties without knowing tomorrow's rewards?

PRAYER: Fill our hearts, O God, with great longing to accomplish things that count in the Kingdom of thy Son. Let our constant aspiration be to know and to do thy will. May we be happy children of the morning and achieving men of the day, in Christ's name. Amen.

Rin-Tin-Tin Coming

A picture with a dog for a hero is offered movie patrons in "Where the North Begins" to be shown at the Lyric theatre beginning Saturday.

Rintintin, the remarkable police dog is the hero, and is said to excel himself in this Warner Brothers production, where he takes the part of a wolf-dog who leaves the pack to attack a helpless victim of a gang of outlaws, and becomes his devoted friend.

Rintintin was born on the firing line in France and brought to California, where his intelligence plus the excellent training afforded him made him one of the elite of dogdom.

The action of "Where the North Begins" is set in the far north miles from civilization, in a Hudson Bay trading post, where Shad Galloway rules with an iron hand. A gang of outlaws is operating in the region and Gabriel Dupre, a young trapper, sets out with a load of furs, not knowing it is a trap set by Galloway to get him out of the way and thus having Belize MacTavish, young woman of the post, at his mercy.

Gabriel is wounded and left for dead by the outlaws. A wolf-dog attacks him in his weakened condition but later befriends him, and from this point he takes an active part in the stirring development of the story.

The cast consists of Claire Adams, Walter McGrail, Pat Hartigan, Myrtle Owen and Fred Huntley.

At the Sigma

A new kind of hero is delighting patrons of the Sigma theatre this week in "The Meanest Man in the World," with Bert Lytell and Blanche Sweet in the leading roles.

Richard Clarke, a young lawyer, decides that he can't be successful unless he is mean. He is commissioned to either collect a debt from one J. Hudson of Hudsonville or foreclose a mortgage. But J. Hudson's first initial stands for Jane and when the "meanest man" meets her, his newly adopted business code suffers.

Other popular players in the production are Bryant Washburn, Marion Aye, Lincoln Stedman and Ward Crane.

"The Meanest Man in the World" will be replaced on Saturday by "Cause for Divorce."

MAIDS RESCUED

rejects the impulse of the heart and to the man she loves—he is already married—and ends it all by declaring that "life is of more importance than love."

It is Alfred Sutro's genius alone that lifts the "Laughing" above the mediocre, for there isn't a single incident out of the common place so far as plot is concerned. It is along Sutro's brand of plays, where the repartee is delightful. It can be said truthfully that the opus will never find a place among the classics, but it is very interesting, very amusing and very delightful. It is drawn along the most ordinary lines; just as one might expect; nothing contrary to the accepted precedent of society or the upper strata. In this "Laughing Lady"—albeit the title is a misnomer, because she does very little laughing—Sutro illustrates potentially the possibilities of genius in dealing with an everyday story; getting the gist from dry wit with the result distilled to "food for the gods."

Miss Barrymore is delightful and it is conceded that she becomes a Sutro disciple in exactness satisfactory to Sutro himself. She plays the humdrum existence of an individual in higher society with exactness. There is nothing strange now-a-days in being a divorcee, and she does not flaunt the distinction. She is human and being human falls in love with the individual who flays her in the witness chair—human nature. But being a divorcee of distinction is quite sufficient for women in the same high strata of society to court acquaintances and to envy her. But she is possessed of good common sense and

MISS ALIAS

BY DOUGLAS GRANT

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Sally Peck, employee of the Fair Deal Five & Ten, quarrels with her policeman sweetie, Michael Curtis. That night Sallie goes into the yard to take down a washing for Madame Copeland, with whom Sallie lives. A crash shakes the earth and something strikes Sallie a blow on the hand.

When she regains consciousness, the girl finds herself in strange surroundings. A fresh maid and a little Alva Copeland and Madame Copeland. All right, thought Sallie, she's got to solve the mystery of why she is being substituted for the real Alva Copeland.

Michael Curtis and his friend, Captain Wheeler, starts on the trail of Alva and Sallie decides to pretend that she is acting in accord with the wishes of the Copelands.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Look, Miss Alva! Are they not beautiful?" the maid exclaimed gushingly as she took a huge bunch of violets from the box. "This envelope is for you, of course, but will this not be tres chic against the gray of your robe?"

Sallie looked at the card to gain time to consider the most consonant note in this double role she was playing and arriving at a quick decision, turned and threw the card face upward upon the table. It was a plain card and bore, in the peculiar slanting writing which had accompanied the news of the day before, just three words: "Good morning, from Wheeler."

"I'll say they're all right!" Sallie exclaimed in as tough a manner as she could assume. "Cousin Wheeler's the little white-haired boy, ain't he? Sure I'll wear 'em this time, Therese, but what's doing? Is he gonna call mornings, too?"

"Madame have invited M'sieu Sloat for lunch, I think, and as you are so happily recovered, Miss Alva, it is permitted that you again take your place." Therese's head was bowed as she pinned the violet to the gray cardigan but her tone was dignified and somewhat shocked. "Madame is waiting for you in her sitting room."

Broad sunlight streaming in at a great bay-window replaced the candle-glow of the previous day and the mauve room appeared larger and more austere in spite of its elaborate furnishings. Mrs. Copeland, too, as she rose to receive the girl seemed to have lost a little of her gracious poise and beauty the cosmetics her face was haggard.

"Good morning, Alva, dear—" She bent forward as though to kiss her hostess.

"Good morning, Mrs. Copeland," she responded deliberately. "I'm glad to get a chance for this talk with you."

"I—I don't understand!" Mrs. Copeland faltered, taken aback at the boldness of the attack.

"Oh, you got me all right!" retorted Sallie coolly. "You know I'm not your stepdaughter, this 'Alva' kid, and you know there ain't anything more the matter with my head than there is with yours!"

"If you are not my stepdaughter," Mrs. Copeland said slowly as she sank into a chair and mechanically leaned back to another. "Who are you?"

"Don't you wish you knew?" Sallie sneered tauntingly.

"My dear, we all know about you," Mrs. Copeland rose to the bait. "You are Sarah Peck, and you worked in a store in Shafestown—"

"Sue do! That's me!" Sallie interrupted with elaborate over-eagerness. "You don't know who my folks are though, nor the crowd I travel with!"

"We have ascertained that you have no relations but have lived with Mrs. Brennan, and that a young detective sergeant of the police has been paying you attention."

Sallie laughed long and loud, and Mrs. Copeland eyed her with growing wonder.

"Paying me attention, eh? That's good! I ain't tying up with any bull, believe you me!" Mrs. Copeland shuddered.

"You—you don't seem like the same girl you were yesterday!" she murmured. "Your speech, your manner! It does not seem possible!"

"I can be a lady when I like!" Sallie flared up in pretended anger, then added. "There ain't no need of it now and besides, it's a nuisance!"

"Nevertheless, my girl, you will find that it pays." There was a significant smile in Mrs. Copeland's tone not lost upon her companion.

"That's what I want to find out," Sallie remarked promptly. "How much?"

She felt elated when Mrs. Copeland put both hands to her temples in alarm.

"Really, you must try to speak so that I can understand you!" she exclaimed. "I am prepared this morning to talk to you quite frankly and if you are a sensible girl you will see it is greatly to your advantage that we brought you here and took care of you."

"I wasn't exactly homeless, but I ain't kicking—yet." Sallie's reply was noncommittal. "I'll say you treated me fine so far, but what do you want of me?"

"I merely to stay here with me in my house as my stepdaughter Alva, and this—visit—may end at any time or at most in a few months hence." Mrs. Copeland spoke slowly as though choosing her words. "You will be surrounded with every luxury, as you see; you will have all the pretty clothes you like and I shall give you some jewelry appropriate for a young girl which you may take with you when you leave us. At that time, too, if you will kindly leave this country and never return or communicate with any of your former associates, and will never mention this little transaction between us to anyone, you shall receive twenty-five thousand dollars!"

Sallie sat back in her chair as though prepared to receive the thanks of the girl but Sallie shook her head.

"Twenty-five grand is an awful lot of money just to be adopted and play the lady for a few months; too much, unless other folks are making such a killing out of it that it ought to be worth more to me. I ain't asking you what your game is, Mrs. Copeland, I'd be willing to play it the way you tell me and no questions asked, but how do you know I'd get away with it?"

"I am quite sure of that, my dear girl, and nothing can go wrong, I assure you."

"Mr. Wheeler Sloat," Fitch announced from the doorway with a slight cough.

Sallie turned and gazed straight past the advancing visitor to the footman and to her surprise he winked and then made an unmistakable gesture with his head toward the hall.

"Dear Aunt Flo!" Sloat bowed over the hand and then turned to Sallie. "I see you are wearing my violets, Alva! And how much better you look this morning!"

"Wheelie, is the door closed?" Mrs. Copeland interrupted. "Sit down, you are a trifle late at our conference, although I admit that our young guest here precipitated it. I have been explaining our little proposition to her."

"Indeed?" Sloat gave her a keen glance and then smiled at Sallie. "Then our little Cinderella knows the good fortune in store for her?"

"She does not appear to consider it in that light," Mrs. Copeland shrugged. "She seems to fear that something may go wrong with our plan."

"On, absolutely not!" interrupted Sloat. "There isn't a chance for a hitch anywhere!"

"That's what they all say!" Sallie grinned. "I don't know your lay nor the gang that's working in with you but s'pose somebody lays down on you, or smashes, or sells you out? As far as I can make out you haven't any of you seen the real Alva since she was a little kid and you might stall that off on palmed off on you at the convent you were talking about yesterday."

"My dear!" Mrs. Copeland spoke again in horrified accents. "It is understandable that you could be recognized as other than my stepdaughter, but surely you know that we would protect you! You would have the best legal advice, the highest influence would be brought to bear to explain your part in our little joke!"

Sloat had listened with a peculiarly shrewd expression to Sallie's speech, a vastly different from the mildly slangy, half-illiterate one of the previous day, and now calling still further upon her slender knowledge of the vernacular of crookdom, as gleaned from Mike's anecdotes of Headquarters, she replied:

"That listens well, and maybe you mean it, Mrs. Copeland, but the only job about it would be the legal advice and the high influence if I should happen to get pinched! I might take a chance for fifty thou, and promise to quit the country and not squeal when you've turned your trick if you've played square, but not for less."

Sloat stroked his hair and returned his aunt's uncertain gaze with a meaningful one.

"My dear—ah, young lady, what you ask is quite out of the question! You are running not the slightest risk but are enjoying instead an experience which could come to you once in a lifetime. But let us leave that matter until my aunt has had an opportunity to consult with—ah, the others."

"There's something else," Sallie observed. "If I'm supposed to be this 'Alva' kid, do I have to do the society act? Meet a lot of swells, I mean, and all that?" "Cause if I do, it's all off! I could never learn to talk and act like you people in a million years and the convent stuff ain't in my line."

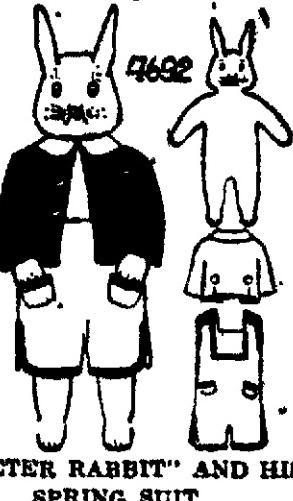

"Very sensible, my dear girl, I'm sure!" Sloat responded. "The idea was that Alva was to be seen as little as possible under the circumstances, wasn't it, Aunt Flo?"

Mrs. Copeland nodded.

"That is exactly what we had planned. Although Alva was—er—engaged to you she had been removed from the convent before her graduation because of her dear grandmother's grave condition and the same reason will suffice to postpone her debut indefinitely and avoid the necessity for her appearance at any formal social affair."

"There's more than that on my mind!" Sallie announced with a quick glance at Sloat. "I wouldn't want to meet any of your friends—any of the dames who call in to see you."

THE TANGLE

An Intimate Story of Innocent Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESS-COTT TO ALICE HAMILTON

DEAR LITTLE SISTER:

Of course I was very much surprised when your cable came telling me of your engagement to Karl and then, thinking over the matter, I decided that I oughtn't to be surprised, for I think, my dear, you always intended to marry him.

Don't be angry at that; I do not mean it as crudely as it sounds.

Most girls intend to marry the men they do marry long before the men themselves have the slightest inkling of what is before them.

Had I never met Jack, probably some day I would have married Karl myself, but having met my husband I could of no more married any other man than I could have taken my own life.

I am sure I hope you will be very happy, Alice dear, and I see no reason why you will not, for you are going to marry one of the best men in all the world, the man who will probably live only to make you happy.

I am glad for your sake that he is rich, for I do not think that you could be very happy without money. I remember that you said as much when I married Jack.

Of course I am glad that Karl gave you another string of pearls "better than the ones he gave me," but honestly dear, I am a little bit sorry that you told me of it in your first cable. It makes me feel as tho you always envied me the pearls.

When you come home if you wish them I will give them back to you as your wedding present. I have my baby, Alice, he is the sweetest thing on this earth.

Yesterday I am almost sure he said "Mama," altho Jack laughed at me and insisted that he only had a pain in his little tummy.

What a lovely time you have had this last year. You have been presented at the English court and had all the attention paid to you that any girl could wish, and now you are coming back to marry one of the neatest and richest young men in America. I hope you appreciate your blessings.

I expect mother will cable when you start. Jack and I and the baby will try to be at the pier to meet you all.

I shall be very glad to get my family home again.

Lovingly, LESLIE

SPEAKER HAS MORE THAN LOOK-IN FOR 1924 PENNANT

IF YANKS WABBLE IT LOOKS LIKE CLEVELAND

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK — (United Press) — With seven players in the line-up day after day who are capable of .300 hitting or better, the Cleveland Indians are assured of some batting thru the 1924 season if they do nothing else.

As the pitching problem concerns so many of the other pennant contenders in both major leagues, it will be a vital factor with the Indians.

With such a powerful punch the Indians might win the pennant under ordinary conditions with the pitchers they had last season, but the power of the New York Yankees on the defense makes it imperative their option have something more than such.

George Burns is back on the first base and the Cleveland world's most up-to-date pitcher on the defense, but the punch of the team is greatly increased.

Take in the Indians' world's greatest defensive record, the newest addition to the team in the Indians' Stephensons with play second base and you'd make good. But a splendid batter.

There are no better outfielders in the league than Johnson, Speaker and Shuman and there are capable reserves.

Steve O'Neal, one of the best catchers in the league, has gone to Boston, some critics think, that O'Neal will be missed badly, particularly by the team which won the pennant.

WRIGHT ADDS PUNCH TO PIRATES

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — The team that will carry the hopes of Pittsburgh in the National League race this year will be the Pirates of 1923, with one exception, shortstop.

Glen Wright of Kansas City, pronounced by all big league scouts as the best looking ball player in the minors, will supplement Rabbit Maranville at short.

Despite the fact that Maranville has been on the market all winter it looks very much as if he would remain on the Pirates' lineup, simply shifting from short to second.

The Pirates finished third last season, four games back of Cincinnati, the runnerup, and eight and one-half games away from the pennant-winning Giants.

PIRATES IMPROVED

Manager Bill McKechnie is confident that his club will be far more formidable this year. He regards the beating of Cincinnati as an almost certainty and feels that he will press the Giants to the limit to again win.

The manager of the Pirates is basing his hopes on at least a half dozen points.

First, is the addition of Glen Wright to the lineup. McKechnie is confident that Wright will start right in the big show where he left off in the minors, a star. Wright, in the opinion of the Pirates' manager, should strengthen the club's field at least 25 per cent.

The experience of last season is figured to greatly improve the play of Third Baseman Traynor, make him the outstanding man at that position in the National League.

Epinard A Bit Heavy Says Leigh

MAISONS-LAFTITTE, France — (Associated Press) — Epinard, the wonder horse of the European 1923 racing season, has wintered very well and his scratching from the English classic.

Wertheimer thought that asking a horse to carry 145 lbs. so early in the season against the class entered in the handicap was "bit rough," and he did not want to take the chance of getting the horse to sour on his work, or meet with a defeat before starting off on his American campaign. The recent weight ever allotted by the British handicapper previous to the impost on Epinard, was 135 lbs. which Polyphemus was asked to carry some years ago. Polyphemus scratched.

The freezing weather of February made the track here so hard that it was practically impossible for Epinard to do any hard work at all.

Eugene Leigh, the American trainer who looks after the conditioning of Epinard, told the correspondent the other day that "working 40 pounds off Epinard in five weeks were a much easier task than taking half a pound off Jockey Dundee in five days in order to make the featherweight limit."

Epinard's first engagement is at Saint Cloud late in April, and Leigh says he will have the "horse fit to run for a king's ransom."

Epinard is one of the sweetest tempered animals that the veteran trainer ever has looked after. His constant companion is a mongrel dog from which the speedy horse refuses to be separated, even when locked up in his stall for the night. An effort once was made to have Epinard take up with a dog of high degree, but it failed. The only show of temper that the horse has ever shown was when Wertheimer insisted in forcing upon him as a companion instead of the mongrel a beautiful prize winner at one of the recent dog shows. Epinard kicked, literally, for the first time, and the attempt was abandoned.

STOCKS CONTINUE UPWARD MOVE

Fresh Buying is Added to Extensive Short Covering

DEMAND FOR RAILS GROWS

Intermittent Bear Selling Fails to Halt Advance

LIBERTY BONDS

NEW YORK — (Associated Press) — Stock prices registered further improvement at the opening of today's market. Added to continued short covering, fresh buying, well distributed throughout the industrial list stimulated fractional advances in a large number of stocks. Independent steel shares responded to favorable reports of conditions in the industry.

Prospects for early action on the Davis report, combined with a more favorable outlook at Washington aided the forward movement in the early dealing. Gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded by a wide variety of shares, including DuPont, Schulte, Union Pacific, New York Central, Texas and Pacific, Pittsburg and West Virginia and Atlantic Coast Line. A growing demand for railroad issues was reflected in buying of the dividend paying stocks. Profit-taking developed later in a number of representative industrials, forcing General Electric and Studebaker down a point. American Cigars preferred and Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred also suffered sharp losses. Foreign exchanges opened lower.

Brisk buying of representative railroad stock which advanced one to more than 3 points, sustained the general list despite intermittent bear selling of the motor issues and renewed liquidation of low-priced industrials. With fresh operations for the rise in progress, the demand broadened considerably embracing oil, shipping, tobacco, merchandise and chemical issues. United Fruit jumped six points, Sears Roebuck 2, Woolworth and Lackawanna 3 1/2 each. Southern Pacific rose more than a point to a new top price for the year at 90 5/8 and Missouri Pacific preferred reached a new high level at 37 3/8, renewed selling pressure against the motors brought a three point loss in Nash and Willys-Overland preferred. General Electric yielded two points and United Cigar broke 10 points to a new minimum figure at 180. Call money opened at 4 1/4 per cent.

CITY WILL PAVE 24 STREETS

Three Miles of Construction in Bids Due Friday

Approximately three miles of paving are included in Lima's street improvement schedule, work on which is to begin as soon as the jobs are awarded and the weather permits. Bids will be received by the first Friday for paving, in which 24 streets are involved.

The proposed improvement for 1923 originally included 45 streets. Legislation on 21 of them has been held up by lack of petitions, the absence of sewers, or the presence of schools on the streets proposed, Manager Bingham said.

Seven new streets have recently been added to the proposed improvement schedules. Resolutions have been presented, but as yet the necessary ordinances have not been passed.

This brings the total number of streets on Lima's 1924 improvement schedule to 52. Bids on the following streets will be received Friday: Ashton-ave., Baxter-st., Belvidere-ave., Central-ave., Circular-ave., Cole-st., Corliss-ave., Eureka-st., Hamilton-Hazel-ave., High-ave., McDonell-st., Madison-ave., Marian-ave., Metcalf-st., Murray-st., North-st., O'Connor-st., Rice-ave., Runyan-ave., Union-ave., Wendell-st., Woodlawn-ave. and Cole-st.

Kitchen Police Distasteful To Young Recruit

Willie Bland, tired of soldier life at Ft. Thomas, Kentucky, and went to W. O. L. on April Fool's day. Police picked him up here Wednesday night for train riding on the Baltimore and Ohio.

The soldier, age 21, told Police Inspector George Strick, former army officer, that the non-commissioned officer in his company "picked" on him and made him do extra kitchen police duty.

The commanding officer at Ft. Thomas has been notified by local police who are holding Bland for return to army life. He enlisted one year ago and was enroute to Detroit to get a job when arrested here.

NERVOUS, RUN-DOWN MOTHERS

Worn Out Caring for Children and Housework—See how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps

Indianapolis, Indiana.—"I was in a very nervous and run-down condition while nursing my baby, and bearing some talk of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began taking it. From the second bottle I noticed a big improvement, and I am still taking it. I am not a bit nervous now, and feel like a different person. It is a great medicine for any one in a nervous, run-down condition and I would be glad to give any one advice about taking it. I think there is no better medicine and give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. ANNA SMITH, 641 W. Norwood Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

The important thing about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is that it does help women suffering from the ailments common to their sex.

If you are nervous and run-down, and have pains in your lower parts and in your back, remember that the Vegetable Compound has relieved other women having the same symptoms. For sale by druggists everywhere.
